The plan(t)s come in whenever they want

The studio of Jeroen Wand is located in an old garage building behind a gas station. In this odd location we work on and develop new products en interior projects. This year we will showcase our new aluminum furniture set. Created out of 100% aluminum therefore 100% recyclable. Jeroen Wand collects many things, one of which is plants, preferably ones that you don't see often. The collection is growing in multiple ways and therefore surrounds the working environment of the studio. For this year we chose to show the new collection of work in their 'natural' habitat, the place where the designs and plans of the studio are born: amongst plants.
