

Trashure series

Jorien Wiltenburg has made new colourful experimental works for the Messmerizing exhibition called the Trashure series.

Trashure series are part of the Messmerizing exhibition.

Hosted by: Jorien Wiltenburg

Project Information (EN)

Trashure series

Her intend is primarily to catch the eye and inspire: to see waste as something that can become something beautiful. Secondly she intends to make people aware of the serious fact that a big part of our waste still ends up in nature. Plastic has already found its way into our Earth's crust. The objects are made out of men-made trash such as plastic bags, washed up plastics and city container waste. The trash is mixed with cement concrete and bio resin. The used techniques are similar to those that shape and reshape the earth like erosion, heating and grinding.

Projectinformatie (NL)

Trashure series

Her intend is primarily to catch the eye and inspire: to see waste as something that can become something beautiful. Secondly she intends to make people aware of the serious fact that a big part of our waste still ends up in nature. Plastic has already found its way into our Earth's crust. The objects are made out of men-made trash such as plastic bags, washed up plastics and city container waste. The trash is mixed with cement concrete and bio resin. The used techniques are similar to those that shape and reshape the earth like erosion, heating and grinding.

Image List

Filename	Caption	Credit
jorien-wiltenburg-ddw_1662820374.jpg

The images above are included in the ZIP under /images.