Project Information (EN)

Living with water instead of against water

The Netherlands is facing big challenges due to climate change. One of the more nature-centered and exciting solutions to these problems would be to allow more water in Dutch landscapes. However, this is in direct conflict with the dutch narrative concerning water. The Dutch have been fighting water for as long as the Netherlands existed. In fact, fighting water became quite a big part of the Dutch national identity. Within Dutch culture sayings like "God created the earth except for the Netherlands it's made by the Dutch" are not uncommon. However shifting towards Living with, in and around water will also be a good thing. 'Nat Land' tries to shift from climate anxiety to enthusiasm towards the future, by using humor and light provocation
