

Proud South Craft Talk by Li Edelkoort

Join us for the Proud South Craft book launch & talk by Li Edelkoort, celebrating contemporary craft as a force for cultural and social transformation

Join us for the Proud South Craft book launch & talk by Li Edelkoort, celebrating contemporary craft as a force for cultural and social transformation

Hosted by: Kazerne Foundation

Project Information (EN)

Join us for the book launch and an inspiring talk by Li Edelkoort

Proud South Craft is the second volume in a series that celebrates the creative forces of the new Global South. Through 34 chapters, Lidewij Edelkoort and Lili Tedde have brought together a dynamic group of emerging and established creatives from around the globe. As Edelkoort observes, “Craft is the direct link humans have with their ancestors and the beginning of civilisation.” She feels this irreversible revival of craft reflects society’s desire for authenticity and tactility, to complement our modern mode of living, but more so, craft embodies our urgent need to affirm the power of humans over machines and artificial intelligence. Hence, the idea of an activist counterculture emerges, manifesting with palpable proof that the made-by-hand can become a Proud South revolutionary movement to reckon with.

9:30 – Walk in

10:00 – Talk starts

11:00 – Talk ends

Afterwards: Meet Li Edelkoort and get your signed copy — a celebration of contemporary craft from the Global South!

English spoken, free entrance, open to all.

Limited seats are available, don't wait too long to reserve your free seat.

Projectinformatie (NL)

Join us for the book launch and an inspiring talk by Li Edelkoort

Dit event is in het Engels, dus de tekst hier ook — wel zo makkelijk.

Proud South Craft is the second volume in a series that celebrates the creative forces of the new Global South. Through 34 chapters, Lidewij Edelkoort and Lili Tedde have brought together a dynamic group of emerging and established creatives from around the globe. As Edelkoort observes, “Craft is the direct link humans have with their ancestors and the beginning of civilisation.” She feels this irreversible revival of craft reflects society’s desire for authenticity and tactility, to complement our modern mode of living, but more so, craft embodies our urgent need to affirm the power of humans over machines and artificial intelligence. Hence, the idea of an activist counterculture emerges, manifesting with palpable proof that the made-by-hand can become a Proud South revolutionary movement to reckon with.

9:30 – Walk in

10:00 – Talk starts

11:00 – Talk ends

Afterwards: Meet Li Edelkoort and get your signed copy — a celebration of contemporary craft from the Global South!

English spoken, free entrance, open to all.

Limited seats are available, don't wait too long to reserve your free seat.

Image List

Filename	Caption	Credit
lidewij-edelkoort-photo-by-thirza-schaap_1760621449.jpg	Lidewij Edelkoort	Thirza Schaap

The images above are included in the ZIP under `/images`.