More:

In the spirit of synthetic design, I created a space that you can enter whenever you feel like you are exposed to too many stimuli, in which you can take a deep breath and just be. Your mind is being transferred into a different place using water elements. It is because the water was proven to be enormously helpful in calming one’s nerves. It is called the Blue Health Phenomenon- the secret of happiness. Comfort and relaxation are the keys to this project. This idea came from a place of extreme stress that I was experiencing, even burnout. By designing for an individual, I came to design for other people as well.
