

Re:Layered is a collaboration between Silke Grimmelmann and Angharad Summers, transforming recycled plastic and rescued timber into meaningful, high-quality objects. Each piece tells a story of reinvented waste and action.

Hosted by: Silke Grimmelmann & Angharad Summers

Project Information (EN)

Collaboration Statement In our collaboration, LAYERED x Material Relationships, we unite around a shared vision: to reveal the hidden beauty of waste. Through layered plastic and reclaimed wood, we explore circular design, material honesty, and emotional connection. Our work invites reflection on consumption—and celebrates what already exists. LAYERED reinventing waste - by Silke Grimmelmann LAYERED reinventing waste - transforms post-consumer plastic packaging into unique, layered surfaces for eyewear, objects, and interiors. Up to 40 hand-sorted foil layers are fused without glue or added color, creating tactile pieces with depth, color, and story. Each object reveals the hidden beauty of waste, celebrating imperfection and material honesty. LAYERED is both a product series and a design approach — exploring circular aesthetics and the emotional value of reused materials.The LAYERED glasses were recognised as a Finalist in the Green Product Awards 2025. Material Relationships - by Angharad Summers Material Relationships is a furniture series that transforms discarded materials into meaningful, functional pieces. Using offcuts, factory waste, and reclaimed timber, each design celebrates imperfection and material memory. Rather than hiding flaws, Summers highlights them—revealing the story behind each object. Her non-egocentric approach is humble, resourceful, and honest. The project questions fast consumption and invites us to see value in what’s already around us.

Projectinformatie (NL)

Collaboration Statement In our collaboration, LAYERED x Material Relationships, we unite around a shared vision: to reveal the hidden beauty of waste. Through layered plastic and reclaimed wood, we explore circular design, material honesty, and emotional connection. Our work invites reflection on consumption—and celebrates what already exists. LAYERED reinventing waste - by Silke Grimmelmann LAYERED reinventing waste - transforms post-consumer plastic packaging into unique, layered surfaces for eyewear, objects, and interiors. Up to 40 hand-sorted foil layers are fused without glue or added color, creating tactile pieces with depth, color, and story. Each object reveals the hidden beauty of waste, celebrating imperfection and material honesty. LAYERED is both a product series and a design approach — exploring circular aesthetics and the emotional value of reused materials.The LAYERED glasses were recognised as a Finalist in the Green Product Awards 2025. Material Relationships - by Angharad Summers Material Relationships is a furniture series that transforms discarded materials into meaningful, functional pieces. Using offcuts, factory waste, and reclaimed timber, each design celebrates imperfection and material memory. Rather than hiding flaws, Summers highlights them—revealing the story behind each object. Her non-egocentric approach is humble, resourceful, and honest. The project questions fast consumption and invites us to see value in what’s already around us.

Image List

Filename	Caption	Credit
No images available.

The images above are included in the ZIP under /images.