

Forest floor

Hosted by: Milah van Zuilen

Project Information (EN)

Fieldwork

With fieldwork as a fundamental method, she explores the human urge to understand, categorise and divide landscapes.

The Square

Also central to her work is the square, a shape that characterises this human perspective on the land. In current projects, Van Zuilen gathers and rearranges leaves and other plant materials into squares and grids, referring to the grid-like structures found in taxonomy, cartography and monocultural land use.
